Marion D.A.R. Chapter Holds Its Annual Birthday Party

THE annual birthday party of the national Daughters of the American Revolution was celebrated by Captain William Hendricks chapter last evening at the home of Mrs. Earl Kennedy of Vernon Heights boulevard. Mrs. Harry Mautz, Mrs. Griselda Dombagh and Mrs. William Drake were the assisting hostesses.

The occasion marked the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the first chapter. Mrs. Jay Maish was in charge of arrangements for the party. Several of the members attended in costumes of 40 years ago.

Of interest to the members and the guests, Mrs. Bertha Hervey of New York, Mrs. Arthur McClellan of Urbana and little Miss Gwendolyn Mouser, was a display of relics of bygone days.

Mrs. S. L. Leeka, regent, Mrs. Maish and Mrs. S. K. Gorbham gave reports of a state convention at Dayton the last week in March. Mrs. Merrill A. Turney of Aurora Hills, Va., a member of the local chapter, will be its representative at the national congress in Washington, D. C., next week.

Tiny candles centered the individual cakes served with the lunch, carrying out the birthday significance. The chapter will meet again on May 14.

be had by owner by appearing at police headquarters and identifying it.

Barrieks Improves—The condition of Harry Barrieks of 415 South Grand was reported improved today at City hospital. Barrieks was hurt in an auto accident at Upper Sandusky last Sunday.

CHIEF MARKS ORDERS TRAFFIC REGULATION

Police Head Launches Drive To Curb Speeding and Reckless Driving.

handed on the traffic docket, Chief Marks warned. Fines for reckless driving run into sizeable figures. To Patrol Streets Streets on which motorists apparently have an inclination to run at high speed are Main street, Delaware avenue, Davids, Church and Center streets, Chief Marks said. These thoroughfares will be patrolled.

Stop signs and traffic signals must be observed or arrests will be made, he warned. Many complaints in which motorists and truck drivers have ignored "stop" signs at intersections have been received, and in order to break up the practice, all violators will be prosecuted.

The careless and many times reckless operation of bicycles and motorcycles on the streets is also on the "taboo" list in the campaign. There is constant danger of fatal accidents and personal injury in zipping these vehicles aimlessly about the streets, Chief Marks declared. The practice of "riding the handlebars" and operation of bicycles or motorcycles at night without lights will bring prosecution.

Warns Truck Drivers—Marion delivery truck drivers have taken advantage of the privilege allowed them, the chief said. Not only must these drivers conform to speed laws and observe traffic signals, but they also must cease doubleparking for long periods of time, and other obnoxious practices. If delivery trucks are doubleparked, the drivers must be busy loading or unloading, he said. Doubleparking of passenger cars cannot be tolerated.

Sluggish drivers, as well as reckless drivers, will feel the effects of the campaign. In the uptown section where traffic is governed by lights, drivers must move promptly when the green light is flashed, although not before. A common complaint at present is made against drivers who move so slowly on the green light that only three or four automobiles can go through an intersection at one time, even during rushed traffic.

Motorists must respect the rights of pedestrians at intersections governed by traffic lights, Chief Marks asserted. When the pedestrian crosses an intersection with the green light, he has the right of way over the motorists making a right or left turn.

Sirens, whistles, noisy exhausts, muddy license plates, improperly lighted automobiles and other common violations of traffic rules will be subject to prosecution.

is a time for thinking, not for tunes.

Cyrus H. K. Curtis would like to hear at the last moment, "Softly, Low the Light of Day."

Many, not so high-brow, would like to hear the old song, "Long, Long Ago." For when age, disease and death approach not the present hour, but earlier, happier days seem worth while.

THE MEDICAL TIMES, read by 14,000 doctors, attacks birth control on economic grounds, criticizing clergymen, including British bishops, that approve birth control propaganda.

The Medical Times is worried about "standardized mothers" and fears that women will be "thwarted in the fulfillment of her destiny."

However, educated women, unless controlled by religious conviction, will continue to regulate the size of families, as they always have done. The important question is: "Can you properly keep from poor and ignorant women, unable to care for their families properly, the knowledge given freely to more prosperous mothers, that might support more children?"

MOVE FOR EMBARGO ON FOREIGN EGGS

Northwest Prices Ruined by Competition of Imported Supply.

By International News Service
PORTLAND, Ore.—A movement to secure an embargo against foreign eggs is growing in the Pacific Northwest as the result of an over-supply of eggs this year caused by foreign importations. Prices have dropped to almost ruinous levels, poultrymen claim.

The embargo movement gained impetus here following a message from Robin Hood, secretary of the National Co-operative Poultry
Producers, in which Hood inquired whether they favored an embargo and if they would participate in a campaign to secure one.
Dixon replied that he was in favor of such action and declared that the embargo if imposed should never be lifted until congress doubled the present tariff on dried eggs of all descriptions.

"There was imported in this country from January 1, 1930 to November 30, 1930, inclusive,
290,077 dozen eggs in the shell;
1,202,447 pounds dried whole eggs;
6,344,476 pounds dried yolks;
3,112,200 pounds of dried albumen, and 4,950,800 pounds of frozen eggs in different forms. This is the equivalent of 38,910,847 dozen eggs or 1,648,028 cases of 30 dozen each.
"Considering the condition of the poultry industry as it finds itself today," Dixon wrote, "this is 1,218, 028 cases too many."

ATLANTIC & PACIFIC

The Stars Say--

For Saturday, April 11

BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

THIS day will be conspicuous for the predominance of private affairs, with social, domestic and romantic activities engaging the attention almost exclusively. Friendship, courtship, pleasure and society hold sway, with the prospect of intrigues, secrecy and mysterious angles complexing these. It is suggested that precautions be taken with all writings, especially social correspondence. There is a measure of misunderstanding and misrepresentation of a sinister nature.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to have a year in which the purely private affairs and relations may engage attention. Domestic, social and especially affectional concerns may be uppermost, or business in connection with these or with art or intrigue. Be careful with all correspondence, lest there be regrettable misrepresentation or deception. A child born on this day should be clever and cultured, gifted in all that makes for social and artistic prestige.

CARDS PICKED TO REPEAT IN NATIONAL

ST. LOUIS LOOMS AS PROBABLE WINNER SECOND YEAR IN ROW

Several Others Likely To Put Up Stiff Opposition to Red Birds.

BY LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 10.—"Stick with a winner" is a sound maxim, especially when the winner happens to be a fighting ball club like the St. Louis Cardinals, who waded through the stiffest kind of opposition last year to capture the National league pennant after a gallant uphill fight. So here's picking the Cards to win the flag again this season.

With five clubs conceded a chance to be the first to the wire, the writer sees the finish as follows: St. Louis, Brooklyn, Chicago, New York, Pittsburgh, Boston, Philadelphia and Cincinnati.

Last year the Cardinals nosed out the Cubs by two games; the Cubs finished three games ahead of the Giants; and the Giants had a one-game margin over Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Boston, Cincinnati and Philadelphia finished next in order.

St. Louis had one of the finest pitching staffs in the league last season in Grimes, Hallahan, Haines, Johnson, Rhem, Linday and Grabowski, and this array has been augmented by two promising recruits, Derringer and Dean. They also were one of the best hitting clubs, averaging .314 as a team.

All Hurlers Back
Last year Grimes did not join the club until June 15. This season he will be available at the opening gong, which may mean that he will win six or seven more games for the Red Birds than he did in 1930.

On paper, Chicago and Brooklyn added considerable strength during the winter. The Bruins acquired three experienced hurlers in Bob

TENNIS HOPES OF U. S. REST ON YOUNGSTERS

Success in Davis Cup Matches Depends on Showing of Youthful Players.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, April 10.—The United States Lawn Tennis association has turned to the rising generation in its campaign to regain the Davis cup, held since 1927 by France, makers of the racket.

Twenty-year-old Francis X. Shields, of New York, and 19-year-old Sidney B. Wood, of the University of Arizona, have been selected to represent this country in the first round cup tie with Mexico and also for the second round series with Canada, granting that Smith, Jakle May and Sugar Sweetland, and picked up a promising minor league hurler in Ed Baecht.

Brooklyn plugged up two of the weakest spots in its lineup when O'Doul and Thompson were obtained from the Phillies. The slugger O'Doul will be worth a dozen Ike Boone's in left field, and Thompson should fill the hole at second base through which a dozen ball games leaked last season.

Cubs Uncertain
The Cubs present several uncertainties. There is doubt whether Hornsby, at second, and Bell, at third, will last more than half the season. Charlie Grimm, whose batting fell away to .289 last season, is getting no younger at first base.

The greatest trouble with the Cubs is that Hornsby is likely to clash with his players, with team play suffering as a result. Grapevine rumors from the lair of the Bruins indicate harmony already is lacking. Hornsby denied this recently, saying in particular that he was on the best of terms with Hack Wilson, hitherto the leading light of the club, but in his next breath the Rajah let the cat out of the bag with the remark that "he would be satisfied if Wilson would hustle."

Brooklyn Lacks Punch
Brooklyn may fail because it lacks the final stretch drive that makes or breaks a pennant contender. Year after year the Robins have been out in front, only to fold up in the last month. The disability of the injured Luque during the first month of the campaign also hurts the club's chances.

If two rookie pitchers, Berly and Schumacher, come through, the Giants will ask quarter from no one.

Lack of competent pitchers is likely to keep Pittsburgh in the second division. Kremer is getting old and French and Swetonic are only fair boxmen. Charley Wood, the young southpaw, has possibilities.

St. Louis is picked to win with the assumption that Chick Hafey will be in the fold when the season starts. If the slugging outfielder does not sign, and his equal is not obtained by the Cardinals in a trade, all bets are off.

Mexico is defeated.

Against Mexico, the two youngsters will have the aid of the youthful "veteran," Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., a member of several recent American Davis cup teams. Their companions in the battle with Canada will be selected later.

The Mexican series will be played at Mexico City May 1, 2 and 3, with two singles matches the first day, the doubles on the third and the final two singles matches on May 5. If victorious, the Americans then will move to Montreal to meet Canada May 21, 22 and 23.

Neither Shields nor Wood has played Davis cup tennis but both played brilliantly in American tournaments last summer. Shields, who is ranked nationally at No. 2, just behind the national champion, John Doeg, recently defeated both Jean Borotra and Christian Bousquet in the indoor international team matches against France.

Wood, who is ranked No. 4, just behind the 26-year-old Allison, already has gained recognition as one of the foremost strategists in the game.

ROCK'S SUCCESSOR

Many of the ardent admirers of Hartley (Hunk) Anderson, assistant coach of Notre Dame university are of the opinion he will be called to take up the reins as mentor of the famous team. Hartley learned most of the art of handling footballers from the late Knute Rockne. He is considered one of the leading candidates for the post left vacant by the death of Rockne.

OHIO WESLEYAN NET TEAM OPENS SEASON

Ohio State Opposes Bishops in First of 12-Game Court Schedule.

DELAWARE, O., April 10.—Ohio Wesleyan's tennis team will open a 12 meet schedule when it plays Ohio State at Columbus Saturday. Three veterans from last year's team, George Lowry of Delaware, Philip Slutz of Maplewood, N. J., and Bob Davis of Salem, will play again this year.

Coch George Staten, who will have charge of the Bishops' tennis squad this year, expects by mid-season to have one of the best teams which Ohio Wesleyan has known in years.

The Bishops will meet tennis teams from seven colleges in the following schedule: Ohio State, Columbus, April 11; Ohio university, April 14; Otterbein, April 18; Denison, Granville, April 25; Ohio State, April 27; Kenyon, May 1; Oberlin, Oberlin, May 2; Kenyon, Gambier, May 8; Denison, May 9; Otterbein, Westerville, May 13; Cincinnati, May 16; Buckeye meet at Cincinnati, May 22 and 23.

HOMANS LOSES

Defending Champ Beaten in North and South Golf Play.

By The Associated Press
PINEHURST, N. C., April 10.—The thirty-first annual North and South amateur golf tournament today moved into the semi-final round with Eugene Homans, the 1930 champion, a locker on.

The Englewood, N. J., star fell yesterday before the consistent shooting of T. Siffert Tailor of Newport, R. I. Tailor won the match, five and four.

George T. Dunlap, Jr. of New York, the medalist, continued his march by defeating Howard Tryon of Elmira, N. Y., 7 and 5. Dunlap faced J. R. Ryerson of Cooperstown, N. Y., today and Tailor's opponent was S. M. Parks Jr. of Pittsburgh.

SPORTS

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

WITH only about 10 hours remaining between the time this is written and the deadline for filing entries, there are still quite a number of city recreation baseball teams that have not filed their application to play with the secretary of the city commission. The entries must be in the hands of Elmer Shaw at the Y. M. C. A. before 6 p. m. today.

The last minute rush which nearly always accompanies a situation of this kind is expected to take care of nearly all the teams which intend to play.

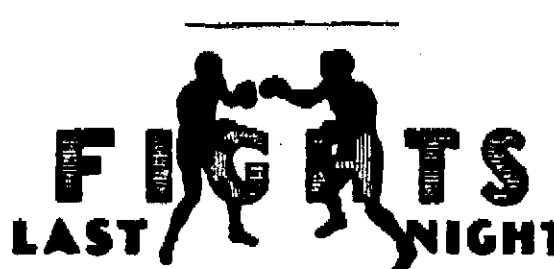

Although it is almost certain that several teams which completed last year in recreation baseball will not be in the race this season there is a little danger of the commission not being able to fill all four leagues. Several new teams have already deposited their entry fee with the secretary. If the leagues can be filled with teams which have played before the few ones will not be taken in but it is certain all four circuits will be.

Several teams that have played in recreation ball for so long they have come to be considered nearly a part of local baseball will not compete this year. The Steam shovel, which has been supporting two teams, one in the Industrial and one in the Commercial will drop the Commercial club this season. The Star, one of the first teams to enter Commercial league competition here, will not enter a team. One or two others that are almost landmarks may withdraw from play.

The Erie Railroad until last night intended to enter but one team this year but at the last moment came through with the decision to enter the usual two teams in the Industrial league. The name of one of the teams will be changed but approximately the same players will be used. The Erie yardmen of former years will play this season under the name of the Erie Traffic club. The Roundhouse will enter under its usual moniker.

After deciding to enter competition again the Traffic club voted to equip the team in new uniforms of a blue and white color scheme official colors of the Erie system.

Recreation ball clubs in the Sunday school leagues are taking a sudden interest in dressing themselves up in the proper attire for playing ball. Perhaps it is the belief that the outfitting of the teams in regular uniforms will provide the proper environment for better baseball. Perhaps it will. Whether it does or doesn't several teams have announced their intention of purchasing uniforms for all the players. At least four Sunday school teams of No. 1 circuit are almost certain to start the year in new uniforms.

BLACKHAWKS RALLY TO REGAIN LEAD IN STANLEY CUP RACE

Chicago Hockey Club Defeats Montreal in Bitter Overtime Struggle.

By The Associated Press
MONTREAL, April 10.—The prediction of Bill Tobin, manager of the Chicago Blackhawks, that a fight Saturday will see the final decision in the battle for hockey's historic championship trophy, the Stanley cup, seems to have been justified. Tobin's team is out

CARRYING ON!

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 10.—Heartley "Hunk" Anderson and Jack Chevigny today took up Notre Dame football affairs where Knute Rockne left off last week.

It had been suggested that spring football practice be dropped but Mrs. Rockne and school officials decided the dead leader would have wanted it to be resumed and a call was issued for candidates to report today. The drills will continue until the end of this month, and will be voluntary.

The problem of electing a successor to Rockne is still being pondered by officials of the university.

Ahead today, leading the Montreal Canadiens two games to one after one of the greatest battles ever seen in the Stanley cup finals last night. And the chances appear more than even that they can win their third game in the series of five.

After being down two goals to their experienced rivals last night, the young Hawks pulled up to even terms with a belated rush. They won out by a 3 to 2 score after nearly an hour of overtime play. The game was close to the playoff record for duration of overtime when Cy Wentworth, veteran defenseman, sank the winning goal 53 minutes after the start of the extra sessions.

Ohio State Baseball Nine Opens Season Saturday

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., April 10.—The Ohio State university baseball team opens its collegiate season tomorrow against Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware. These two teams were scheduled to play last Saturday but were rained out.

Ohio State and Ohio Wesleyan have been rivals since the spring of 1882, during which interval there have been 46 Buckeye wins, nine losses and three ties. Wesleyan has not won a game since 1915.

Fetter Named Manager of St. Paul's Lutheran Nine

William Fetter was elected manager of the St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday school recreation baseball team last night. Bus Sloat was named captain.

The St. Paul team is going to equip the club in regulation baseball uniforms for play this year.

PREDICTS WINNING TEAM

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., April 10.—Predictions that the Columbus Red Birds would be a championship baseball club by or before 1933 was made at a dinner last night in honor of the Columbus club by Sam Bredon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, and with Branch Rickey and Larry S. McPhail, co-owner of the Red Birds.

MARION TO BE HEADQUARTERS

City Likely To Be Made District Center of Nurses' Association.

Marion is slated to become one of the 16 district headquarters of the Ohio State Nurses association when Mrs. Elizabeth August of Columbus, state chairman of the association meets with registered nurses of seven counties at Hotel Harding April 17.

Marion county was made the central unit of this district when the state was redistricted. Previously, Marion county was on the outskirts of a district with headquarters at Mansfield. In the new setup, Marion county and six surrounding counties comprise a district.

The new district will be made official, and a headquarters will be designated when Mrs. August comes here for the meeting April 17, according to Miss Mary B. Pleasant, superintendent at City hospital here.

Since Marion is in the center of the district geographically, and since one of the largest hospitals in the district is located here, indications are that this city will become the headquarters, and the scene of monthly meetings held by the district organization.

Counties comprising the new districts are Marion, Wyandot, Crawford, Morrow, Delaware, Union and Hardin.

In the monthly meetings of the nurses, topics of interest and for the betterment of the profession are taken up. The district of which Marion county has previously been a part has not been active, but if district headquarters are located here, regular meetings will be held and a definite program will be developed, according to Miss Pleasant.

REVIVALIST SLAIN

Berg To Risk Crown in Wallace Fight Tonight

By The Associated Press
DETROIT, Mich., April 10.—Jack (Kid) Berg's junior welter-weight title, will be at stake tonight when he meets Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, in a 10 round bout at Olympia stadium.

Wallace has scored knock-outs in 30 of his 125 fights.

Berg, however, has demonstrated a punishing offense and an ability to take it on defense which has enabled him to defeat the best in this country.

COMEDienne ON AIR

The French comedienne who can't make her eyes behave will be heard in three songs from her recent Broadway successes when she faces the microphone as a guest artist Friday night, April 10 over a large WJZ-NBC hookup.

Opening League Games Will Be On Air Tuesday

By Bruce Moore Leased Wire
A NEW record in the number of sport broadcasts is planned by radio networks for the approaching outdoor season. Next Tuesday CBS will broadcast the opening game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Washington Senators at Washington. On the same day, at Cleveland, Tom Manning will broadcast descriptions of the opening game between Cleveland and Chicago.

An hour's broadcast of the finals of the Drake Relays at Des Moines, Ia., is to be made by NBC's WJZ hookup April 25 at 4:30 p. m. The Big Penn Relay Carnival staged each year in Philadelphia, will be broadcast April 24 and 25.

Other events tentatively scheduled include the Ryder Cup matches in May, rowing regattas on the Hudson and Thomas in June, horse races in England in May.

Three addresses which President Hoover is scheduled to make next Monday and Tuesday will be broadcast over National Broadcasting hookups. The first speech comes over the air lanes at 10:30 a. m. Monday. President Hoover's talks on Tuesday will be broadcast at 12:30 p. m. and 5:30 p. m.

IT'S A FACT—England has its own Amos and Andy now, the two black-face characters go under the name of Alexander and Mose and have been making quite a hit with English radio fans. At first the Britons didn't quite understand them, but after a few broadcasts they began their successful start.

Jeanne Aubert, petite French actress who appeared in "Prince Charming," will be the guest artist on the program of Nat Brussloff orchestra Friday at 8 over NBC's WJZ hookup.

STILL AFTER RECORDS

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, O., April 10.—Seventeen-year-old Helene Madison, who holds 15 American women's swimming records, won't be satisfied until she has some more. Tonight she'll try for No. 16 in the Cleveland athletic club pool when she seeks to better the time of 7:59 made by Martha Norelius in the 600-yard free style.

Chic Star Patterns

Practical and Simple

Short Sleeves Are Chic.

Pattern 2099
BY ANNE ADAMS
Nothing could be newer than the frock sketched today—the short bow-trimmed sleeves, the lovely draped neckline and the combination of light and dark fabrics, are fashion's smartest details. A becoming and slender effect is achieved by the seaming in upward points of both bodice and skirt. Pattern 2099 may, of course, be made with long sleeves if you prefer them. Newest color combinations are black with white, flesh or turquoise, brown with white, eggshell or turquoise, navy blue with white, grey or turquoise. Print or solid color may be chosen.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material and 1 1/4 yards contrasting. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) to coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

TAKES KIWANISANS ON VISUAL JOURNEY

State Educator Is Speaker at Luncheon Club Meeting Here.

Marion Kiwanians were entertained at their regular meeting yesterday at noon by an illustrated lecture given by B. A. Aughinbaugh, state supervisor of visual instruction in the state department of education.

The lecture given in the Ohio theater after lunch at the Marion club took the audience on four journeys over the state, one in each section. He used 140 colored slides to illustrate his lecture.

Among the high spots of the speech was the story of "Dixie." This famous song was written by an Ohio man who is now buried at Mt. Vernon. A colored picture of his tombstone was shown.

Aughinbaugh's talk was chiefly historical. He took the audience into every section of the state, showing pictures of monuments, scenes of battlefields, and beautiful scenic spots.

The same talk was given last night at the Vernon Heights school building.

Kiwanians next Thursday will attend a ladies night party which has been turned over entirely to the wives of members. Mrs. Jay Vaughan is chairman of the committee preparing the program. The party will be given in the Marion club.

Nick's Last HomecomingBy The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, O., April 15.—Grief-stricken and sorrowing, the city which knew Nicholas Longworth as a child and delighted in his accomplishments, today prepared to receive its beloved "Nick" in death.

The whole city was in mourning except for a little girl at the famous Rookwood home of the Longworths. There was none who would tell six-year-old Paulina, niece of the late speaker's heart, of her father's death. The task was left to "Princess Alice" Longworth, when she arrives here with her husband's body.

G. E. MOUSER RECALLS
LONGWORTH WEDDING

Marion Man, Then in Congress, and Wife Among Guests at Event.

Memories of attending the wedding of Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the national house of representatives whose death occurred yesterday, to Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of President Roosevelt, on Feb. 17, 1906, were recalled by Grant E. Mouser, Sr., as he mourned the loss of one of his intimate friends.

Probably no two living Marion residents were more intimately acquainted with Mr. Longworth than Mr. and Mrs. Mouser. Mr. Mouser was a member of congress in 1906 when the elaborate wedding took place in the East room of the White House. Today he distinctly recalls the occasion, which was attended by 1,000 notables, including practically all congressmen and their wives.

Mr. and Mrs. Mouser many times visited the Longworths at their residence in Washington, and knew them as genial host and hostess. Mr. Mouser said, illness of Mrs. Mouser prevented them from attending the funeral Saturday.

TAFT FAMILY ENTERS
POLITICAL SPOTLIGHTOne of Former President's Sons Likely To Be Longworth Successor.By International News Service
COLUMBUS, O., April 15.—The history of the 1900's stands in a fair way of repeating itself in the opinion of political observers here today.

The Taft family, it appears, is on the threshold of renewed prominence in national politics. Just as William Howard Taft followed Theodore Roosevelt to the White House, so now does one of his millionaires sons—Robert A. Taft, or Charles P. Taft II—seem more than a mere possibility to succeed in Congress Nicholas Longworth.

There was no one mentioned more often here today as a likely successor to Mr. Longworth than State Senator Robert A. Taft, an outstanding member of the general assembly, an authority on taxation, a corporation lawyer by profession, and admittedly a prospective candidate for governor of Ohio at the next election.

To reiterate, there was no one mentioned more than that State Senator Taft, that is, unless it was his younger brother, Charles P. Taft II, once a fiery prosecuting attorney and who is now associated with his brother in the legal handling of wealthy estates and corporations.

It is entirely possible, some observed here, that by a queer trick of politics, the Taft brothers may be rival candidates for the congressional seat of their mutual friend, Mr. Longworth.

Educator Says Graduates Not as Well Trained as Formerly.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., April 15.—Present-day college graduates are not so well educated as those of 15 years ago, Professor Hubert M. Potest of Lake Forest college told the Ohio State educational conference here today.

Modern education, the speaker said, consists of too much irresponsible teaching, too much educational machinery and excessive emphasis on efficiency.

Professor J. F. Fullington of Ohio State told the delegates that the average college student has failed to master the fundamentals of oral and written expression in high school.

Ambassador Carlos Davila of Chile and Sir Willmot Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times, will speak at tonight's session.

LEGISLATORS CLASH
ON CLOSING DAY

Revolt Throws Ohio House in Turmoil; Senate Retaliates.

A two-thirds vote to advance the bill for immediate consideration. The insurgent Republicans and the Democrats lacked 13 votes of the required two-thirds but had many to spare as far as the majority was concerned in the attempt to obtain immediate consideration of the bill, which had passed the senate 25 to 1.

While Republican house leaders were battling to ward off the coalition, Republican majority leader Earl R. Lewis, Republican of St. Clairsville, served notice on them that the senate would refuse to consider further house bills unless the house immediately started consideration of the senate measures sent over.

Indicating their mandate was no less than the passing of two minor house bills. They had more than 30 other measures pending on the calendar at the time but many members refused to vote on them because the house had failed to act upon senate bills.

Bills Sent to Governor
During yesterday's mad scramble, a score of bills completed their passage through the assembly and were made ready for presentation to Governor George White. A few measures were defeated. Some of the bills must go to one or the other house for concurrence in amendments before they can be signed.

Chief among amendments to be concurred in today are those made by the senate to the Recreational-Building bill making a redistribution of the gasoline tax. As passed by the house, the bill sought to cut $4,000,000 from the state's present share and divide it among the counties, municipalities and townships. The senate reduced the amount to be taken from state highway funds to $2,500,000. House backers of the measure had previously agreed to the new distribution and it is anticipated the house will readily concur in the amendments.

The $2,500,000 to be taken from the state's present share will be divided as follows: $1,500,000 to townships in equal portions; $500,000 to the counties in equal portions; and $500,000 to the municipalities on basis of motor vehicle registration.

Drouth Aid Shaped
Final touches were given to the Mildred bill appropriating $80,000 for emergency relief for drouth sufferers.

World war veterans who have been unable to draw adjusted compensation as provided 10 years ago because of lack of funds will be paid forthwith. Approved claims aggregating $40,000 are waiting to be paid and $14,000 additional was provided to take care of claims that may be approved in the future. No claims will be paid after Dec. 31, 1932.

Other measures which received final legislative approval included

Daily Proverb—"When industry goes out at the door, poverty comes in at the window."

Gandhi is said to despair of pacifying the Indian sects. It was very generally understood that Gandhi had taken on a real man-size job.

And while we have been enjoying the balmy breezes of spring, the New England states have been experiencing a big snowfall. But then, we always held that this was the very heart of the garden spot of the world.

"Shouse Hits at Hoover in Des Moines Speech"—Headline. It was something along this line which caused General Benjamin F. Butler, long years ago, to come back with "Shoo, fly!"

The convicted head of Cleveland's "million-dollar swindle ring" has been apprehended after a search of thirty months in New York City. As has often been remarked, sooner or later the criminal feels the hand of the law.

William Gibbs McAdoo warning the Democratic party that support by it of wotness means its defeat, sets one guessing. If the Hon. William ever made a political prophecy which held, it certainly escaped public attention.

If we are to judge by the interest of the London papers, the certainty that "Big Bill" Thompson sustained such a staggering defeat that he can no longer be a menace to their king must have carried great relief to the people of Britain.

Unless William McAndrew is more than human, Tuesday's mayoralty election up in Chicago must have produced at least a chuckle on his part. It will be remembered that Mr. McAndrew was dismissed from the superintendency of the Chicago public schools on the ground of insubordination, a charge which, some time later, the courts refused to sustain.

The Split in German Fascism.

Today Adolf Hitler is not the figure he was immediately following the Reichstag election of last September. Things have been going badly for the man who was going to organize a third reich and cause heads to roll. There is a split in his National Socialist party, the "storm troops" of Berlin's Fascism having lost confidence in his leadership and broken away under the leadership of Walter Stennes, who was expelled from the party for having rebelled against what he charged was Hitler's inactivity. Herr Hitler has given the shock troops until April 12 to submit without condition to his leadership or be excluded, automatically upon failure to comply with his decree, from the party.

In his paper, Der Volkische Beobachter, he has uttered a pledge binding both himself and his party to abide strictly by the laws of Germany. "Under no circumstances," he says, "shall I permit disobedience or even lawlessness to be carried into the National Socialist movement and its discipline and the authorities of its leaders to be destroyed. Whoever leads the National Socialist movement into open war against the state commits a crime against our movement."

"I regard every one who tries to stir a completely unarmed organization to violence against the present state either as a lunatic or as a criminal or stool-pigeon. I am sworn to strict legality in the party. No one will make me become a perjurer."

Quite a change of tone from the Hitler pronouncements of last fall. Flushed in the victory Fascism received at the polls last September, Herr Hitler doubtless saw in himself another Mussolini, but he evidently lacks certain qualities possessed by Il Duce. He deduced himself into believing that there had been a radical change in the mental attitude of the German people as a whole. As a matter of fact, he was not alone in viewing himself as a possible dictator. Many outside Germany viewed him in that light, but the events of the last few weeks have worked a radical change in that view. He has failed to perform up to expectations and, in the failure of his one-time "storm troops" to submit to his rule, he may lose confidence in himself and prove little more than the political dud many are now inclined to hold him to be.

Whatever success Herr Hitler has thus far attained in his opposition to the German government as at present constituted unquestionably was due to German economic conditions. But realization has come to the German people that the depression from which Germany is suffering is not limited to their boundaries. It is worldwide. This realization has not helped the German Fascist movement, but it has decidedly strengthened, the cables say, the position of the German administration and the policies for which President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Brüning stand. If time confirms these views from Germany, it will be gratifying to the outside world which, as a whole, wishes Germany well.

Nicholas Longworth.

To say that the entire country was shocked by the news of the death, Tuesday, of Nicholas Longworth, representative from the first Ohio district through thirteen congresses and for the last six years speaker of the house, would not express to the full the countrywide feeling. From all points of the land came expressions in tone with those uttered here in our home city, plainly indicating far more than a feeling of shock—utterances, unmistakably heartfelt, making manifest a feeling of profound regret.

Nicholas Longworth was one of the few men in our public life who overcame the handicap of being born to great wealth and high social position. His election to the Ohio house of representatives was commonly attributed to family wealth and influence, and for a time he was rather generally regarded as a rich playboy. That reputation followed him into the Ohio senate, but his intimates knew him as far more than that. They recognized in him a man of intelligence and education; a man with a mind and will of his own; a man who could go against the popular trend when convinced that he was following the course of right and justice in so doing, and with all this, a man of lovable disposition and manner who could be steadfast to his friends in ill fortune as in good.

Whatever may have been the chief factor in the achievement of his early political success, it was recognition of merit which enabled him to enter congress at thirty-three and serve ably, with a two-year interruption following his failure of election in 1912, up to the time of his death at sixty-two.

But the handicap to which reference has been made was not the only one overcome by "Nick" Longworth. Without thought of disrespect to the great national leader and world character who is gone or the latter's daughter, who today has the sympathy of the entire land in her bereavement, he overcame as well, the handicap of being President Roosevelt's son-in-law and the further handicap—undoubtedly one in which he rejoiced—of being the husband of the great progressive's daughter.

Even at this time, there are many manifestations of a decided inclination to attribute the political fortunes of Nicholas Longworth and his success in attaining the speakership to Mrs. Longworth. The probable truth in this case, as in almost all cases in which the wife has been, or is, held responsible for the political success of her husband, is to the contrary. No man has achieved as highly as did he on the influence of another. It takes more than family influence, or wifely influence, even though it be the influence of the daughter of a president and a remarkably gifted and forceful daughter at that, to achieve what "Nick" Longworth's own words is "the greatest office in any legislative branch in any government of the world." There must be high qualities in the man himself to reach the speakership of the lower house of congress. And to hold to the contrary is a poor compliment to one who has done excellent service for the government, a poor compliment to the ability, the courage, the force of character, the many fine qualities of this distinguished Ohioan taken by pneumonia yesterday after an illness of but two days.

A baker of Mattoon, Illinois, has been warned by the state food inspector that his loaf of bread weighs 19½ ounces instead of sixteen as prescribed by the law, and that future offending will result in his prosecution. There's no getting away from the fact that truth is a whole lot stranger than fiction.

A New York man was sentenced this week to from two and a half to five years in Sing Sing on the ground that he had six living wives from none of whom he had taken the trouble to cut his shackles legally. Of course, the additional fact that he played a saxophone may have worked against him.

So Amelia Earhart established a new auto-gyro record, a day or two ago, by piloting one of the horizontal windmill machines to an official altitude of 10,000 feet. And here we had anticipated that with Amelia's marriage she would cut out her high-flying.

Georgia watermelon growers this year cut their acreage six per cent., which means 7,000 acres, their hope being to gain a better return for their crop. If watermelons go much higher, a man will have to tie a gold elephant out in front of his grocery's establishment for the privilege of looking at one.

The Akron's First Commander.

The position which Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl will fill as first commander of the new navy airship, Akron, ranks well toward the top of the list of the world's most responsible assignments. Indeed, it is difficult to imagine another position that would impose so great a burden on a single individual.

Commander Rosendahl, who is still a young man, will face first the task of organizing and training a crew for the airship. On the crew's ability and upon the coordinated machine which the chief forms out of its members will depend the safety of an expensive and as yet untried piece of property, to say nothing of dozens of lives.

The world, literally, will be watching the first flights of the Akron. It is the embodiment of a new idea which, if proved practical, will give the United States a vast advantage in protective armament. The Akron unlike the Graf Zeppelin and the Los Angeles, is a fighting craft, and every nation concerned with national defense will be watching to see what it will do in the air. It is Commander Rosendahl's duty to make a creditable showing.

The significant thing about the situation, perhaps, is the opportunity Commander Rosendahl has had for training in a highly specialized field. As a member of the crew of the ill-fated Shenandoah, he learned what dire disaster can overtake an airship. As a frequent passenger on the Graf Zeppelin he has learned about the accomplishments which a well-managed, efficient airship can achieve. As commander of the Los Angeles, he has learned how to direct the management of a ship himself, and as an ardent student of aviation for almost a decade he has learned as much as any living man knows about lighter-than-air fighting.

"HURRY UP, OR I'LL BE DEVoured."

Editorial Opinion.

THEY APPRECIATE THE MARINES.

The picture that President Jose Maria Moncada of Nicaragua paints in a recent copyright dispatch to the New York Herald-Tribune dealing with the disaster at Managua is a distressing one. Moncada gives the world a glimpse of a land staggering and all but undone by a blow too heavy for it to withstand. "The government," he says, "in reality is confronted with the task of beginning a new life. Such a growth is a slow, deliberate and costly maturing. The government is already engaged in giving it impetus. However, the resources of the state have been so depleted . . . that the government is at the moment incapable of assuming the immediate problem of relief and the later and vaster problem of reconstruction, without having recourse to external assistance."

Nevertheless, Moncada does not make any direct plea for aid. After expressing appreciation of the proffered assistance of the American Red Cross and of the other Central American governments he does, however, make this highly significant statement:

"We are grateful also for the unceasing efforts of the United States marines in our behalf. For their courage, perseverance and gentleness during this crisis, there are not words of praise too emphatic or expressive."

The utterance is something more than a mere compliment to the men of the United States marines, one of the finest fighting and policing organizations the world over has seen. The words of the Nicaraguan executive constitute an acknowledgment of service and aid that adds new lustre to the history of the corps.

But it also is easy to find between the lines something very much resembling a plea by Moncada to the American people that they will not insist now upon prompt completion of the policy of withdrawal of the marine corps from Nicaragua to which Washington is committed. The plea should be listened to, for long as the people of Nicaragua need their help in this new trouble that has come upon them, the United States should not take the marines away.—Detroit Free Press.

PREMATURE POLITICS.

There is something distinctly novel—some would say amateurish—in the plan of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, to build a party platform a year in advance of the national convention. The chairman, no doubt, is moved by a commendable desire to straighten out party differences as early as possible but so perverse is human nature and so strange are the workings of politics that an exactly opposite result may be attained. Indeed, so far as the Democrats are concerned, the prospects already are for discord rather than unity.

With one of the Democratic party's strongholds militantly dry and other militantly wet, the injection of the prohibition issue into these early discussions was bound to provoke strife. Mr. Raskob found this out at a meeting of the national committee a month ago; he is finding it out in even greater measure as the national committee begins to express their opinions of his form letter. The simple truth of the matter is that two great sections of the country do not see eye to eye on the prohibition question and it is doubtful if any amount of informal discussion can make them see eye to eye. It may be possible eventually to persuade the South to accept a wet candidate and a moist platform but it seems to us that the more discussion there is beforehand of such things the less will be the chances of bringing the result about. If the South does finally agree to such an arrangement, it will want, as an excuse, the fact that in the hurry and press of a national convention, it seemed the only thing to do. To drag up the whole matter for consideration now is merely to encourage the Southerners to tighten their lines of battle and to be prepared to fight it out to the bitter end.

Mr. Raskob apparently has decided what he wants the party to do but political observers will be very much astonished if he gets far with his program. Presidential candidates may be made well in advance but platforms are created at conventions. The nearer the campaign an issue is raised, the more likely it is to be of timely concern to the voter.—Boston Transcript.

Scientific Notes.

To meet increasing demands for service a second telephone cable will be laid between Malmö, Sweden, and Copenhagen, Denmark, and another from Denmark to Germany. A new hand magnifying glass to aid in reading small type or in examining small objects is equipped with an electric lamp that can be plugged into a lighting circuit.

The Word of God.

I will bring the blind by a way that they knew not; I will lead them in paths that they have not known; I will make darkness light before them and crooked things straight. These things will I do unto them; and not forsake them.—Isaiah 42:16.

Silica Dust Harmful.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Man has been subjected to various ailments because of the very nature of his work. Laws have been enacted and enforced to prevent unnecessary exposure to disease.

These are wise laws, but in spite of them there remain various diseases afflicting man in his daily labors. "Silicosis" is one of these. It is a disease of the lungs. It is produced by breathing in great quantities of dust containing a high percentage of silica. The disease is common in the mines of South Africa and Australia. It has been reported in the United States and Canada.

It is found in men who work on siliceous rock or dust, in metal mining and coal mining. It is encountered in the quarrying of sandstone and granite, in tunneling, excavating, sand blasting, stone carving, grinding and polishing.

Just how silica acts on the lung tissues is not definitely understood. As a rule it produces a chronic bronchitis and this may lead to one of the forms of pneumonia. The afflicted person becomes extremely susceptible to infections of the lungs. Repeated attacks of pneumonia lead to a general lowered resistance and, following this, tuberculosis may be contracted.

The occurrence of silicosis seems to depend upon the percentage of crystalline silica, tiny sand and flakes, present in the substance inhaled. Men who are occupied in work of this nature over a period of five to ten years are very likely to develop the disease. There have been reported cases of silicosis where the length of exposure to the dust has been for a much shorter time.

After continued exposure the symptoms gradually appear. There is an obstinate cough and progressing failure of health. Within a short time the afflicted person is unable to work. Much has been done to reduce the prevalence of this disease. Proper ventilation of mines has greatly diminished it. Men are now protected by the wearing of masks similar to those worn by our soldiers during the war.

Long continued exposure to the dust is to be condemned. It is recommended that in these dusty industries the men work in short shifts. At certain periods they should change their work, doing tasks where exposure to dust is not required.

2.—What treatment is advised?

A.—A bulging at site of rupture.

2.—Surgical measures are usually necessary.

P. E. Q.—What do you advise for receding gums?

A.—This condition requires the attention of a dentist.

MRS. R. L. H. Q.—What is the cause of a sour stomach and belching after eating? I have been bothered in this way for two years. Milk of magnesia has not helped the condition. What would you suggest?

A.—This is usually due to acidity. Correct your diet and be sure that the system is kept clear. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

MISS D. L. Q.—What would cause the veins near my temples and under my eyes to be unduly noticeable?

A.—It would be rather difficult to say, unless the skin is unusually fine and thin in these parts, causing the veins to show through.

Pierce, Mathematical Genius.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The two greatest figures in mathematics and physics, produced by this country, are Benjamin Pierce and J. Willard Gibbs. In any biography of Pierce will be found long lists of books he wrote, papers he published. If all else were swept out and only his "art of formal logic," as it is called, were preserved, he would be remembered always in history as one of the founders of modern mathematics.

Benjamin Pierce was born in Salem, Massachusetts, on April 4, 1829. He was graduated from Harvard in 1850, after which he busied himself with teaching for two years. From himself with teaching for two years. From 1851 until his death in 1880 he was a member of the faculty of Harvard, first as tutor and afterwards as professor. This is the longest term, forty-nine years, ever held by a member of the Harvard faculty, with but one exception.

Pierce had a remarkable mind, critical and perceptive and was able to grasp mathematical principles and equations with amazing ease and readiness. As a boy, he was shown by his father, the famous Nathaniel Bowditch, Young Pierce looked through it searchingly, and then pronounced it to contain an error. When the great Bowditch heard of this, he was greatly interested, and said: "Show me the boy who corrected my mathematics." The outcome was the establishment of a close relationship between the young and old mathematician. Pierce wrote his masterly work, "Analytic Mechanics," he dedicated it to the cherished and revered memory of his master in science, Nathaniel Bowditch, the father of American geometry.

Pierce was an industrious and capable writer of text-books, and made many contributions toward the improvement of mathematical teaching in this country. He was prominent in the movement for the establishment of the observatory at Harvard. He made many contributions to astronomy, in particular regarding the planet Neptune, discovered in 1846. Notable were his contributions to the study of Saturn and its rings, and this is regarded by some authorities as his greatest individual piece of work. A master mathematician, he demonstrated the mathematical, mechanical and physical principle, that "the rings, if solid, could not be sustained by the planet, that satellites could not sustain a solid ring, but that sufficiently large and numerous satellites could sustain a fluid ring, and that the actual satellites of Saturn were sufficient for that purpose."

Pierce was much interested in computing the orbits of planets and comets. For a considerable time he was in charge of the mathematical part of the "American Almanac," ten volumes of which he prepared.

Pierce justified in later years the prediction of him as a Harvard man, made by his teacher, Nathaniel Bowditch, that he "would become one of the leading mathematicians of this century." The highest flight of his genius was displayed in the now classic work, "Linear Algebra," which he himself said gave him the fullest reward for his mental labor in the novelty and breadth of the results.

Vallandigham and Cox.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

"Sunset" Cox and Clement L. Vallandigham were colleagues as members of the house in Washington through many sessions of congress, and were generally agreed on public matters. They were personal friends, and at Vallandigham's request Cox acted as his counsel when he was arrested by General Burnside for violating his order against aid and encouragement to the enemy.

They took opposite views, however, as to the right of the course of the government in the Trent matter. The Trent—British vessel, was sequestered by a United States naval vessel, as she was taking Mason and Slidell, who had been designated as ambassadors from the Confederate government to England, to London, and the ambassadors and their assistants were taken off as prisoners.

It was felt that this might lead England to take a stand in support of the confederacy, and many who believed that we were within our rights, feared that the act might do us more harm than good. Vallandigham was outspoken in his position that we had no right to take the men from the British ship, even though they were going abroad on a mission hostile to the union. He predicted that the United States would be glad to surrender Mason and Slidell within three months, and in the face of three years.

Cox, in one of his notable speeches, defended the course of Secretary Seward, and referred in his speech to the opposite view as expressed by his colleague, Mr. Vallandigham. It proved to be one case in which Vallandigham was right in a war matter. After being held in prison in Boston harbor for a short time, the ambassadors were released, but not because of any specific threat made. They went to England and tried to induce the ministry to recognize the government of the confederacy, but in that they were not successful.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, April 10.—Thoughts: "Rolling" won't come one tell Lou. He is no longer "The Great Lover." After all he was only a "Passing Fancy" say Morton Downey plays only black keys by ear. What became of "Fred Barker's" body slings, adjectives like A. P. Herbert's London Punch.

Albert Keller, a Frankfurt, German, who made good in the city. Some day I want to see a Chinese restaurant on the ground floor. William Kent is graying, too. I am buying any more bonds. What else do the Astaires do besides that loping dance? "Grand Hotel" as a play is far better than the book. The way they are reeling off those German beer places! Who remembers the peek-a-boo waist? I always want to write it Zola Grey. And Zane Gale. That man's sweetness of spring showers. Isabel Paterson, the book critic.

A new luncheon place in the Forties is getting the Dinty Moore-Sardi "celebrity" crowd. But wait for the new Radio City! The Capitol ushers may not dress so grandly, but they are the politest. See how What's become of Tommy Lyman?

Byron Newton, who wrote that poem about New York. You know, over-dressed and underfed. And now lives quietly at Bayville, N. Y. East Indian fakir putting fire in a drink. Roland Pertwee's name for a new window suggests Elton collars and varnished ropes. Odor of lilacs.

The smallest of the Metropolitan was Lily Pons. Those frail, elderly ladies, white lace collars and cuffs who drive in the park daily. Suggesting the calmness of the sea. Jules Glentzer's alert flair for life. Harold Ross' side hair part.

Never see a Russet apple. Cabaret sign: "Hot shoe slappers and lazy hip rollers." No one beats Lee Patrick portraying a tough stage lady. Those mournful cornet street solitaires. The drab of a mackerel sky. Why doesn't a Welsh rarebit taste as good as it smells?

Clarence Budington Kelland, in toastmastering a recent dinner, led off with: "The function of a toast master is to be as dull as possible in order to make the speakers whom he is to introduce appear brilliant. As I look up and down the table at this array of speakers it occurs to me this evening I shall have to rise to new heights of dullness."

Rennold Wolf once said the best after-dinner speeches are composed in taxicabs going home by people who had never been called upon to speak.

Harry, the butler, has burst out in a c—d—ummar effort. On a desk scratch pad today he had written: "An old colored gentleman upon being asked how he felt replied: 'Well, boss, I feel kinda betwixt 'On Lord' and 'Thera God.'"

Willard Keefe has a character in his recent play chimp: "I feel lower than a well digger."

And still another philosophizes: "I never sock a lady unless I love her."

Mr. Keefe is a newspaperman and press agent who came within an eyelash of authoring what the Rialto would call "smash hits." He has a raw sense of realism that wobbled somewhat in his first efforts, but producers are confident they will galvanize eventually into something that will knock the town cold.

Evansville, Indiana, has not forgotten a local boy who made good in the city—Joe Cook. A bronze has been placed at Fourth and Oak, his old home, in the yard of which he learned many of his acrobatic ditches that lifted him to a deserved celebrity. Inscribed on the bronze is this: "At every stage performance, and in movies he mentions Evansville, Indiana."

On Court street in Gallipolis, Ohio, there is also a bronze ding indicating where the poet formerly used to live. "People from everywhere stop and look at it," wrote Harry Madison. "Some weeks there are two or three."—Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The "Gilt-Edged" Railway.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

The so-called "gilt-edged" railway runs from the great port of Santos, Brazil, to Sao Paulo, the storm center of the recent Brazilian revolt and the coffee center of the universe. This beautiful and perhaps unique railway makes fabulous profits for its owners and since being built by British engineers in 1897, has been improved until, in itself, it is one of the great sights of that exciting and picturesque country, Brazil.

So much money has been poured into the task of beautifying and modernizing this push among railroads that a story to the effect that its engines have been silver-plated has gained wide circulation.

The motivation for all this outlay is not sheer love of beauty. The dividends are restricted by law the surplus going to the Brazilian government and naturally the owners of the railway would rather improve their property than turn the extra profits over to the national treasury.

The railway runs through country of unequalled beauty. It rises in a series of inclines from Santos to the great plateau above and by the time you reach the great coffee country you feel you have just seen one of the world's most striking beauty spots.

The reason for the road's enormous success of course is coffee. It was built to carry the huge crop of this product to the vessels waiting in the exquisite harbor of Santos. It is a fabulously profitable because it charges three times as much to bring coffee from Campinas to Santos as it does to transport it from Santos to New York. One can see what the brown bean means to Brazil when it is realized that ninety-seven per cent. of the city's export is coffee. This coffee sells for more than $90,000,000.

And between this thriving port and the "gilt-edged" railway carrying each of its golden cargo from the coffee capital to the port where wait the ships of every nation, loaded, they sail away to the far reaches of the globe with coffee as the bulk of their cargoes.

WYANDOT COUNTY FARM HOME BURNS

Defective Flue Believed Cause of Blaze Near Upper Sandusky.

Special to The Star
UPPER SANDUSKY, April 10.—The nine room, two-story home of Mr. and Mrs. Vesper Quail, four miles east of this city, was destroyed by fire Thursday noon. The home is on the farm owned by Miss Catherine Smalley, east of this city. It is believed that the fire started through a defective chimney in the kitchen. A strong south wind kept the fire from spreading to the barn and nearby buildings.

Mr. Quail first discovered the fire shortly after it had started and a call for the Crane township fire department was put in by Mrs. Harry Myers, a neighbor. The run to the fire was made by Lester Gottfried, but the truck could not reach the house, as it was stuck axle deep in a muddy section of a field near the home. All the household goods were removed by neighbors, practically nothing of value being destroyed. The loss was partly covered by insurance.
